FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Plaintiff Dorothy Jones ("debtor ") filed a chapter 13 bankruptcy case in the District of Arizona on February 1, 2002. In re Dorothy Jones, 02-01635-PHX-GBN. The reorganization was unsuccessful and debtor's case was dismissed on January 10, 2003 for her failure to comply with the case trustee's requirements. Dismissal order at administrative docket entry ("dkt") 62.

2. While the bankruptcy was pending and the automatic stay of § 303 (a) was in effect, the record property owner of the premises at 8415 East Emile Zola Avenue in Peoria, Arizona, retained attorney Scott E. Williams of Williams & Associates (" Williams" or "defendant") to eject debtor and another from the property.

3. When debtor ignored a May 31, 2002 written demand to surrender possession, sent by both regular and certified mail, Williams instituted an ejection suit against debtor in the Peoria precinct Justice Court on June 4, 2002, without first investigating whether debtor was in bankruptcy. Exhibits E, 2; testimony ("test.") of Denice W. Wynn, test. of Scott E. Williams of March 25, 2003.

4. Upon receipt of the Justice Court papers, debtor frantically contacted her bankruptcy counsel on June 6. Counsel dictated and signed a notice of bankruptcy for filing in state court. That court received the notice on June 10. The document contains a slight error in the docket number and is not to be found in the state court's official case file. Bankruptcy counsel did not place a telephone call to defendant Williams, even though defendant's telephone number was listed on the served court papers. However, counsel did direct that a copy of the notice be mailed to defendant. Bankruptcy Counsel doesn't know if a copy was properly mailed or if the envelope was properly typed. Exhibits A, 2, 3; test. of Jay S. Volquardsen.

5. Defendant, unaware that plaintiff was in bankruptcy, proceeded through attorney Andrew M. Hull to obtain a judgment for restitution of the premises on June 10, 2002. Neither debtor nor her attorneys appeared at the state court hearing. Nothing arising at the

1 hearing or in the case file indicated debtor was in bankruptcy. Exhibit A, Test. of Andrew M.
2 Hull.

3 6. A writ of restitution was issued by the Justice Court on June 18, 2002. A
4 second notice of bankruptcy, this time including the correct docket number, was served by 5 bankruptcy counsel on June 20, 2002. Williams can't recall whether he received this notice. IS 6 he did, he would have sent it to the client's bankruptcy counsel. The justice court judge, reacting
7 to the notice, sua sponte on June 20 issued an order suspending all action in the case pending
8 order from the bankruptcy court. Exhibits 4,5. Nothing further occurred in the state case until 9 approximately six months later, debtor's counsel stated in a letter of December 12, 2002 that he
10 wanted the state case dismissed and had filed a motion to dismiss. Although debtor's motion to 11 dismiss does not appear in the Justice Court file, defendant Williams filed his own motion to 12 dismiss the action on December 23. The State Court granted defendant's motion on January 10,
13 2003, vacating the June 10 judgment nunc pro tunc. Exhibits A, 7. March 25 test. of Williams.

14 7. Defendant Williams did not learn that plaintiff was in bankruptcy until his 15 employee Denise Wynn received a telephone call from the state court on approximately June 20
16 advising the June 18 writ would not be executed because of the June 20 bankruptcy notice.
17 Neither Williams nor Ms. Wynn has any recollection of receiving the June 6 bankruptcy notice.
18 Williams has practiced law since 1988 and has handled an estimated 5-7,000 ejection cases.
19 While he is aware of the automatic stay of bankruptcy, he does not have a practice of 20 investigating whether a party is in bankruptcy before bringing litigation. Defendant is not aware 21 of an attorney who does this.

22 He receives approximately one bankruptcy notice a month in his practice.
23 Typically either the bankruptcy debtor or debtor's attorney will call or fax bankruptcy case
24 information. That did not occur here. Upon learning of a bankruptcy, defendant's practice is to 25 inform the debtor there is no need to appear at the justice court, if an action has been tiled. If no
26 action is pending at the time defendant learns of the bankruptcy, no action will be filed. Williams
27

1 will notify the justice court. if the debtor hasn't already done so. and recommend his client retain
2 bankruptcy counsel. Once the justice court judges learn of a bankruptcy filing. most
3 automatically enter a standard form order staying the case. as was done in this case. However.
4 Williams' experience is that approximately 30% of the judges automatically dismiss the action
5 upon learning of bankruptcy. Others may place the case on an inactive status to be dismissed in 6 120 days if nothing further occurs. Defendant rarely has any input on whether the case will be
7 simply stayed or actually dismissed—the judges tend to act on their own. Williams doesn't recall
8 ever being named as a defendant previously in a stay violation action. He is surprised debtor's
9 counsel didn't simply call and inform him of the bankruptcy.

10 If the case has not been dismissed, but only stayed and bankruptcy counsel
11 obtains a stay lift order from the bankruptcy court. defendant will cause a new summons to be 12 issued and obtain a new hearing date. No request was received from debtor's counsel to dismiss
13 the stayed Junes action until her counsel wrote the December 12 letter. Attorney Hull has 14 identical office procedures in the event of bankruptcy. Hull, a landlord and tenant attorney since 15 1977, also does not investigate for a bankruptcy before bringing litigation. Test. of Hull,
16 Williams and Wynn. The Court finds the above testimony credible. Plaintiff presented no
17 controverting evidence.

18 8. On July 9, 2002 debtor brought this litigation against defendant and others.
19 alleging defendant had willfully violated the automatic stay by proceeding with the justice court
20 action after receiving notice of the bankruptcy. Complaint at Count II. Adversary dkt 1. Debtor
21 has reached settlement with the other defendant parties and has agreed to leave the residence. Dkt.
22 32.

1 Conclusions of law

2 1. To the extent any of the above findings of fact should be considered
3 conclusions of law, they are hereby incorporated by reference.

4 2. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334 (a), jurisdiction of the above bankruptcy case
5 is vested in the United States District Court for the District of Arizona. That court has referred,
6 through 28 U.S.C. §157(a), all cases under title 11 of the United States Code and all adversary
7 proceedings arising under title 11 or related to a bankruptcy case to this court. Amended District
8 General Order of May 20, 1985. The proceeding having been appropriately referred, this court
9 has jurisdiction to determine whether defendant willfully violated the automatic bankruptcy stay.
10 No party has argued to the contrary.

11 3. Conclusions of law are reviewed de novo. Factual findings are reviewed for 12 clear error. American Law Center P.C. v. Stanley (In re Jastrem), 253 F. 3d 438, 441 (9th Cir.
13 2001).

14 4. The bankruptcy code provides a remedy for willful violations of the automatic
15 stay. An individual injured by any willful violation of a stay provided by §362 shall recover actual 16 damages, including costs and attorneys' fees and, in appropriate circumstances, punitive damages.
17 11 U.S.C. §362 (h). Debtor bears the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. In re
18 Steenstra, 280 B.R. 560, 569 (Bankr. Mass 2002) (citing cases).

19 5. An award of damages under §362(h) requires a showing by the debtor that she 20 sustained an injury from a "willful" violation of the stay. A willful violation does not require
21 specific intent to violate the stay. A violation is willful if a party (1) knew of the stay and (2) the 22 party's actions which violated the stay were intentional. Eskanos & Adler, P.C. v. Roman (In re 23 Roman) 283 B.R. 1, 7-R (9th Cir. Bankr. 2002). This fact finder concludes that plaintiff failed to 24 prove by a preponderance of the evidence that defendant's actions in sending the demand letter,
25 filing suit, serving process and obtaining a judgment was done with knowledge of the pending
26 bankruptcy. See finding of fact 7. c.f. Roman at 7-10 (awarding attorney's fees on a showing of 27

1 slight actual damages when defendant clearly had knowledge of the bankruptcy prior to bringing
2 suit).

3 6. Certainly had defendant first investigated, he probably would have learned
4 of debtor's pending Chapter 13 case. Such prior investigation could well be a wise policy.
5 Regardless, plaintiff produced no binding authority for the proposition that litigants are legally
6 required to first research whether the potential defendant is in bankruptcy before sending demand
7 letters or commencing suit.

8 7. Plaintiffs principal argument is that defendant was mandated to dismiss the 9 stayed justice court action upon learning of the bankruptcy. That is not the law. A party violating
10 the automatic stay, through continuing or commencing a collection action in a non bankruptcy
11 forum, must automatically dismiss or stay such proceeding or risk possible sanctions for willful
12 violations pursuant to §362 (h). Eskanos & Adler, P.C. v. Leetien 309 F. 3d 1210, 1214 (9th Cir.
13 2002) (emphasis added) (finding liability when creditor failed to either dismiss or stay the state 14 court action, but instead simply stated it would refrain from persisting in the action "...until 15 bankruptcy proceedings sort itself out."). That is not this case. Here the litigation was 16 automatically stayed by the state court itself. There was nothing further for defendant to do.
17 Unlike the circumstances in Eskanos, here there was no maintenance of an active
18 collection/enforcement action in state court.

19 Imposing a duty of mandatory dismissals of stayed litigation would interfere with 20 the bankruptcy court's power to annul the automatic stay by granting retroactive stay relief to 21 validate an otherwise invalid action. Schwartz v. United States (In re Schwartz) 054 F. 2d 569,
22 572-73 (9th Cir. 1992). Thus defendant's prompt dismissal of the stayed action when debtor
23 belatedly demanded this was a courtesy, not a legal duty.

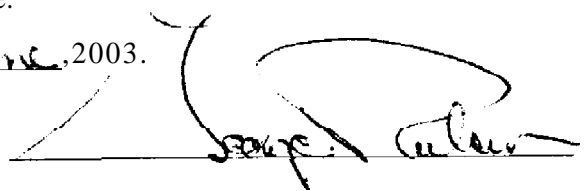

24 8. Plaintiff has not proven her case of a willful stay violation, much less any 25 showing of actual damages. The court notes a §362 (h) cause of action should only be used by 26 debtors as a shield, not a sword. Roman at 11.
